

SOCIETY

The season of vacation has arrived and the social ranks are thumping with the exodus to seaside resorts, mountain glades or Rio Pecos. In the sun-tides of the open country, the strong-headedness and wrong-headedness of devotees of social caste and mental cult vanish when shorn of the trappings of conventional society. Vacationists enjoy the wholesome gambols of childhood, and turn back the pages of life's story to the pleasing first chapters where heroes and heroines "lived happily ever after."

Emerson has said that "Man's life is but seven salads long," and that in variety in disposing of each course is found the perfect flavoring. Thus by sandwiching the vacation between the highly spiced autumn and spring seasons, social leaders are tuned up to the normality and amiability making for convivial zest in the fall. And what splendid opportunities are afforded in the show-swinging hamlets to plan chic gowns for the next year. In the hilly clouds what suggestions for diaphanous robes. Fashions in footwear will be the subject of many hours meditation during the summer, as the agitation for radical changes in the centers of the east forecast shoes on the order of antique Greek sandals flat of sole and lace high up the ankle. With such shoes, of course comes the pleasurable reflection of the hostility, embrocated, spanked and caressed, brightening the reveries of fashion dreamers, like a rich mayonnaise over this "salad" course in the menu of life.

Not least in benefit to vacationists are the diversions at seaside resorts, that by contrast emphasizes the scenes that are brightest at home.

Bridge Party.

A graceful courtesy to Miss Miller of Baltimore who is in the city visiting her sister, Mrs. Rocknagle, was the bridge party yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Theodore Woolsey, Jr., entertained. Though only two tables were enlivened by the small number of guests the appointments were complete in elegance and taste; the rooms being prettily decorated in yellow coryphee.

Rocknagle Function.

The picturesque Rocknagle home in the Highgate terrace, was the scene of a brilliant function Monday afternoon, according to every particular with the lavish hospitality that marks the affairs provided over by Mrs. A. E. Rocknagle as ultra-smart and enjoyable. Half a hundred ladies were the guests on this occasion tendered in honor of Miss Miller of Baltimore, sister of the hostess, and Mrs. Fitzgerald, also a house guest. Entirely informal in reception and entertainment the company passed three hours from four to seven o'clock in unalloyed pleasure. The hostess and the honored guest received in grandmama style. The air of the room was sweet with the breath of flowers, the living room being beautified dressed in pink roses and green peas. The latter flower having the distinction of being the official flower to mark festive occasions in London during this eventful week of the coronation, had far to be called the "coronation flower." The dining room was aglow with the sumptuousness in the hearts of yellow coryphee in which this room and the dining table were decorated. Mrs. P. G. Cornish and Mrs. Theodore Woolsey, Jr., proved being assisted in serving the guests to diners in Miss Mildred Fox, Miss Margaret Keeler and Edmund Estee.

Informal Afternoon.

Miss Virginia Carr entertained graciously this afternoon at her home on North Fourth street. Miss Carr, who formerly studied in St. Vincent's academy returned last evening from Washington where she was a student the past year in the convent of the Visitation. The delightful affair was an informal at-home to school girl friends. The young ladies invited to Miss Carr for the happiness of the day were: Misses Agnes Chidlers, Laurine Aschlin, Florence Grunwald, Jean M. and Helen Hope, Merle Hope, Alice Stern, Ruth Field, Eleanor Vaughn, Katherine Chavez, Pearl Carson, Sofia Yatsche, Rosemarie, Estelle Kelly, Mary Kathleen Kelly.

Miss Vaughan to Entertain.

Miss Eleanor Vaughan will be hostess this evening to a score of friends in the younger social set. Five hundred will be a feature of the evening's pleasure.

Masons' Dance.

Eighty couples, representative of the select society of the Duke City and Flower of knightly Masonry, assembled in the great lodge room of the Masonic Temple last evening for pleasure of the dance. Dispensing with the formalities, that on occasion retard rather than promote sociability, the company mingled as at a parlor function without the "contract dances," signed up in program cards. Music by the Cavanaugh-Fahrmeier orchestra was, as usual, supreme. At intervals during the evening, ice cream cones were served to the dancers. Those within the charmed circle of Masonry or the friendship of Masons, ensuring invitations, are elated over the prospect of these social functions that will occur monthly during the summer and semi-monthly when the weather becomes cooler.

The reception committee whose cordiality did much to promote an unqualified good time on the part of all present included Messrs. Jos. B. Schmitt, Frank Blumenthal, Geo. Dehn, Ivan Grunwald, W. P. Wanner, Jim T. Beard, Carl Davidson.

They were ably assisted by an entertainment committee comprising in its membership Messrs. Chas. Chadwick, R. P. A. Johnson, C. H. Conner, H. S. Pickard.

Week End Dance.

Of the series of delightful dances held by the members of the Thirty club and their ladies, the function Saturday evening in the Elks' ball room was the most pleasurable in the annals of this elite club. The floor of the great hall was smooth as a mirror and afforded ideal gliding for the dancers who dotted the scene in the unswaddled groups without being crushed into a homogeneous mass of humanity as is too often the case at ordinary balls. The music was, of course, by the Cavanaugh-Fahrmeier orchestra. The favorite musicians of this discriminating club. The members and their ladies present were: Misses Sue Dobson, Ethel Saint, Lillian Heissell, Leila Clark, Sophie Verna Pratt, Frances Borders, May McMillan, Irene Bould, Lois Neer, Francis Mannelli, Carol Shipton, Hazel Clark, Clara Koen, Louise Leimbach, Messrs. T. J. Nelson, Bert Skinner, Will McMillan, John J. Tierney, Walter A. Driscoll, R. P. A. Johnson, Oscar H. Gossel, Roy D. Strong, Alvin Bright, Charles King, Carl Richardson, Will Pratt, Frank Ringland, Ralph Parker, Frank Snyder.

Bridge Luncheon.

Mrs. Isaac Barth entertained in her usual charming style Monday afternoon at an elegantly appointed luncheon that was the initial encounter of three to occur in the Barth home this week. The guests who were happy denizens in Mrs. Barth's hospitality Monday afternoon were: Madame Connor, Carrie Bradford, Alice Ackerman, Ferguson, Carter, Mann, Forbes, Klock, Strong, Marion Hart, Wilkinson, Dennis, Miss Brent.

Approaching Marriage.

A wide circle of friends of the principals are interested in the approaching marriage of Miss Lettie Watson and Mr. L. J. Mizé, the ceremony to be solemnized at the home of the bride, 216 South Walter street Thursday evening, June 29. Miss Watson has been for several years one of the ablest teachers in the city schools, having noteworthy success with her pupils in both the First and Second Ward schools, and with a Sabbath school of girls in the Gold and Broadway church. Mr. Mizé is associated with the Highland meat market and one of the stable citizens of Albuquerque, where he has resided for some time the past seasons and the bride-elect left yesterday morning for the groom's home accompanied by Mrs. Essey, a mutual friend of the young people. Miss Zirah will be missed in this city where she has grown to womanhood and enjoys an exceptionally wide popularity.

Motor Parties.

Perhaps every car in Albuquerque will be pressed into service by the entertainment committee in charge of the motor parties to show the city to the physicians who will stop over Friday en route to the annual convention of the American Medical association in Los Angeles next week. Twenty-four physicians are scheduled to arrive in the city Friday, the first of the seven trains to come in about 12 o'clock. In carriages, and automobiles, the local physicians and Commercial club committee intend to have the visitors see Albuquerque, the gem of the Rio Grande, at close range and also from the mesa heights.

Stag Party.

Complimentary to Mr. Clifford Hayden, who is to become a beneficent in the near future, Mr. Nye Martin entertained a number of young bachelors Monday evening at a jolly smoker. Cards, yarns and congratulations extended to the hostor engaged the attention of the gentlemen, who before dispersing did full justice to the toothsome luncheon prepared by Mrs. Martin before she left to attend a girl's merrymaking at the Quickeel home.

The guests who enjoyed Mr. Martin's hospitality were: Messrs. Clifford Hayden, Conie Quickeel, Guy Rogers, Herbert Aschlin, Cullum, Charles King.

Quickeel Entertain.

In consideration of the stag party including the escorts and husbands of several congenial girl friends, Mrs. E. B. Quickeel and Mrs. Conie Quickeel entertained the ladies Monday evening at an equally enjoyable card party.

Five hundred was the postime till the hour for luncheon, that, as is always the case in the Quickeel home was excellently prepared and served. The guests were: Madames Martin, Kunz, Skippett, Myers, Ingrie, Schick, Rogers, Bouquet, Brown, Misses Elsie Easkey, Lillian Lethrop.

Pretty Home Wedding.

Of the many beautiful nuptials ceremonials chronicled in this month of bridges and roses, none have been more beautiful or impressive than the wedding last evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, when Miss Ethel Gibson became Mrs. William E. Zeiser. The rooms and verandas were lavishly decorated in palms and luxuriant vines, cut flowers and ferns, creating a veritable floral bower charged with the incense of roses, carnations and sweet peas forming a fit setting for the enactment of the sacred rite.

An impromptu "zen" in Indian style was a pleasant retreat on the front veranda screened from the street by palms and hanging ferns. In the dining room were a collection of elegant gifts of cut glass, painted china, silverware, linens and other handsome accessories for the new home. A gift from Messrs. D. S. Rosenthal and S. U. Rosenthal and the young lady attaches of the Rosenthal emporium testified to the popularity of the bride with her business associates.

A profusion of carnations enlivened the dining room.

The parlor, wherein took place the ceremony, was beautiful in its display of white roses and within a shrine of palms, canopied with white drapery and asparagus ferns. The bridal couple plighted their troth at 8:30 o'clock, Rev. Herman P. Williams reading the ring service. The bride was charmingly gowned in white lace-trimmed over muslin trimmed in pearl borders and applique and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. The attending couple were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Donnelly, the latter becomingly attired in pink carrying a bouquet of pink roses. Thirty-five intimate friends and relatives of the young couple were present to share their happiness and after post-nuptial felicitations, the company, in two contingents, adjourned to the back veranda for the wedding supper.

This spacious enclosure had been transformed into a sylvan bower by a prodigal profusion of drooping vines, asparagus ferns and palms, that effectively offset the long banquette table with its glistening service and garlands of sweet peas and delicate ferns.

Mr. and Mrs. Zeiser went to their new home on South Edith street that had been furnished throughout and awaited their occupancy.

The bride is one of Albuquerque's estimable young women and Mr. Zeiser a rising young business man of this city.

Dye-Vann Nuptials.

A quiet and impressive ceremony took place Monday evening in the unpretentious parlorage when Miss Ethel Vann and Mr. Isadore D. Blodell exchanged their nuptial vows in the presence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Vann, and Rev. Bertrand Tolbert and Mrs. Tolbert the Rev. Mr. Tolbert pronouncing the ritual. Miss Vann has grown to charming young womanhood in this city, and is esteemed by a wide circle of friends who admire her for many graces of character. Mr. Dye is a well-known business man interested in lumber interests.

After a homely spent in sea resorts, Mr. and Mrs. Dye will go to home to their friends at South High street after August 12.

Wedding Bells.

Weeping bells will ring in Kansas City this week for a charming Alumne who will be the bride of the son of the groom at 8:30 and 10:30 o'clock in the hall of the Knights of Columbus. The principal will be Mrs. Gertrude Zilch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Zilch of this city and Dr. J. K. Thompson, a prominent dentist of Kansas City. The romances began in Albuquerque, where Dr. Thompson resided for some time the past seasons and the bride-elect left yesterday morning for the groom's home accompanied by Mrs. Essey, a mutual friend of the young people. Miss Zilch will be missed in this city where she has grown to womanhood and enjoys an exceptionally wide popularity.

Business Meeting.

The ladies of the Gold and Broad church are all dressed to meet with the Aid society tomorrow afternoon in the church on business of interest to the congregation will be discussed.
